European Union Week @ TUM School of Management

The European Union's diversity is a strength, but also poses challenges. Member states differ with respect to their economic and political situation, and have partly diverging views on what should be the EU's competence and policies. Citizens should understand these different perspectives, and politicians need to find consensus, if the European Union is to fill its role as a major global player.

TUM School of Management dedicates the third week of May, 2018, to the European Union. A string of events shall inform about the European Union, address current topics, and revive enthusiasm for the European idea.

Monday, 14 May

18 Uhr – 20 Uhr: Eröffnungsveranstaltung Audimax; in deutscher Sprache
In Zusammenarbeit mit dem TUM Business Club e.V.

Vortrag von Nadja Hirsch, MEP
Europa kann mehr: Wie wir jetzt unsere Rolle als Global Player einnehmen müssen

Nadja Hirsch, MEP
Mitglied des Europäischen Parlaments,
Vorsitzende der FDP im Europäischen Parlament

Begrüßung
Prof. Joachim Henkel
Forschungsdekan, TUM School of Management

Opening remarks
Prof. Hana Milanov
Senior Vice President International Alliances and Alumni

3:00 - 3:45 pm: EU policy for research and innovation
Prof. Joachim Henkel
Lecture Hall N1190, Building 0101

Tuesday, 15 May

11:30 – 1:00 pm: Die europäische Staatschuldenkrise
Prof. Robert K. Fhr. von Weizsäcker
Room 2418, Building 0504

4:45 – 5:30 pm: ESBIES: A structured product making the Euro more resilient?
Prof. Christoph Kaserer
Karl Max von Bauernfeind Lecture Hall 2750, Building 0507

Wednesday, 16 May

6:00 – 7:30pm
Theodor-Fischer Lecture Hall 0360, Building 0503

Europe and the European South in Times of Crisis: Through the Looking Glass
Prof. Dr. Tassos Giannitsis
Professor emeritus of economics, Kapodistrian University of Athens, former minister

Hungary and the European Union – A bittersweet relationship
Norbert Szijártó
Research fellow at the Institute of World Economics, Hungarian Academy of Sciences

Thursday, 17 May

6:00 – 7:30 pm
Theodor-Fischer Lecture Hall 0360, Building 0503

Robert Schuman’s Vision and Legacy: Peace as the European Project’s Core
Prof. Christoph Ann

The European Single Market: Idea, Growth and Benefits
Prof. Joachim Henkel