5.1 First Level of the Aptitude Assessment Process

For this purpose the written documents are screened and assessed separately by two members of the commission. Then the commission analyses on the basis of the submitted documents, if the applicant is qualified for the programme due to his/her proven qualifications and his/her presented specified competence and talents. The commission has to evaluate the submitted documents on a scale from 0 to 15 points, 0 being the worst and 15 being the best possible result.

5.1.2 For the calculation of the score the following eligibility criteria have to be consulted:

a) Previous education is considered by the final grade (10 points) and the research orientation of the previous academic studies (5 points). The points are awarded as follows: a) outcome of the first degree (final grade of the studies on the basis of §17 (7) APSO): category A is awarded with 10 points, category B with 4 points and category C or worse with 0 points. Grades from other grading scales have to be converted pursuant to §16 (9) respectively § 17 (7) APSO, intermediate grades can be considered. b) academic work competences resulting from the first degree (scientific focusing of the programme: yes: 3 points; no: 0 points) and courses from the undergraduate degree like statistics and empiric research methods; yes: 2 points; no: 0 points; counted twice.

5.1.3 The point total for the first level of the aptitude assessment process results from the summation of the single points from a) to c), divided by 4. Decimal places have to be rounded up.

5.1.4 Applicants who achieved at least 11 points will receive a confirmation of the passed aptitude assessment process. If there is detected pursuant to § 36 subsection 4, that the examination results from required modules in business administration/economics or sociology fall short of the required number of credits by no more than 6 credits, the Aptitude Test Commission may demand that the candidates demonstrate eligibility by taking those examinations as additional fundamentals examinations. That is also possible, if the student is admitted pursuant to sentence 1. If the student doesn't register for the additional fundamentals examinations in sufficient time to achieve the credits within the first academic year, the exams will be counted as failed for the first time. Failed additional fundamentals examinations can be repeated once only and must be repeated due to the following examination date. The Master's Examination Board is able to admit the student to regular examinations in dependence of the completion of the additional fundamentals examinations.

5.1.5 Not eligible applicants with less than 6 points will be notified of the result of the aptitude test in writing specifying the reasons for the rejection and providing information on legal remedies. The notice must be signed by the university administration or computer-generated. Signatory power may be delegated to the chairperson of the Commission.

- general knowledge in the fields of economics and social sciences
- analytical skills in socio-economics
- academic and logical expression skills

Any subject-specific academic knowledge which is to be taught in the Master's Programme in Consumer Affairs will not affect the decision. In the interview, the applicant must support the impression that he/she is suitable for the programme in question.

5.2.4 The aptitude assessment interview will be conducted by at least two members of the commission. Each member will grade the result of the interview on a scale from 0 to 15, 0 being the worst and 15 being the best possible result. The applicant's point total will be calculated on the basis of the arithmetic average of the individual grades, divided by 5. All key aspects are assessed in the same way. Decimal places must be rounded up. Applicants with 11 or more points will be deemed suitable.

5.2.5 The applicant will be notified of the result of the aptitude test in writing, taking into account any conditions set forth pursuant to no. 5.1.4 sentence 2.
